Vital Shifts Of Emphasis Seen For New U.K. Rulers

LONDON (Reuters) — Some of the most important shifts in emphasis in British foreign policy and domestic politics are expected following the Labour party election victory. Prime Minister Harold Wilson has pledged a fundamental review of Britain's role in world affairs.

The pre-election Labour party spokesman for foreign affairs, Patrick Gordon-Walker, said today that the Labour party would work even harder to get China into the United Nations.

Wilson has taken a stand against U.S. proposals for a NATO multi-lateral mixed-manned surface fleet of ships armed with missiles with nuclear warheads.

Wilson has pledged his government to renegotiate the 1952 Nassau agreement which gave Britain the use of Polaris missiles.

He wants all NATO nuclear arms placed under effective political control and can be expected to seek a bigger voice for European countries in nuclear policy-making.

Wilson is determined to upgrade Britain's role in the UN. He is expected to increase the rank of the chief British UN delegate to that of cabinet minister.

The man seen as most likely to get this job has been former colonial governor Sir Hugh Foot, who quit as British representative on the UN trusteeship and colonial committee because he differed with the Conservative government's policy on Southern Rhodesia.

KREMLIN POWER STRUGGLE POSSIBLE

Two Bosses May Dwindle

Stanley Johnson was for six years a member of The Associated Press bureau in Moscow. He returned to the United States in 1963 and now is on the foreign desk in New York.

AP News Analysis By STANLEY JOHNSON NEW YORK (AP) — Leonid K. Brezhnev and Alexei N. Kosygin are running the Soviet Union in tandem today, but it would not be surprising if one of them eventually drops out.

Single harness has been the rule for running the Soviet regime, and single harness it is virtually certain to remain.

Communist party chief Brezhnev, 57, long hair-apparent of Nikita S. Khrushchev whose retirement as Soviet leader was announced Thursday, is the best bet to survive quiet, colorful Premier Kosygin, 60, who is better known for grooming the horse than for riding it.

Brezhnev has had a better chance than Kosygin to build a personal following in the Communist party but lacks the new premier's in-depth knowledge of the country's economy. Kosygin's new eminence may indicate he was the only man stronger members of the party presidium were willing to be pushed over them.

Not that a sudden, sharp struggle for powers is likely, or that the ultimate victor will necessarily be either of the two new leaders.

MANY PROBLEMS There are too many things to clear up before indulging an internal power struggle, including putting an end to Khrushchev's head — long rush for a showdown with China.

Fundamental issues — nationalistic, ideological and the struggle for control of world communism — remain between Moscow and Peking, so full reconciliation seems unlikely.

But until it seems in store while the new leaders try to ease the split.

Prima Donnas, Models Too Frequent in Churches

WORSHIP MUST BE GOD CENTERED

How much of our worship today is Christ centered? How much is man centered? Too much of our worship is just performing. In the pulpit we have ham acting, in the choir prima donnas, in the pews fashion models. With too many people worship is just a social gathering, and playing church on Sunday.

WORSHIP MUST BE REVERENT

A sense of godly awe is lacking in our blatant age. The Hebrews knew that the first law of life is this: "The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom" (Proverbs 1:7). Whoever contacts the living God instinctively responds with reverence. Isaiah cries out: "Woe is me for I am a man of unclean lips." Simon Peter kneels in his smelly fishing boat, and said: "Depart from me for I am a sinful man, O Lord." Our irreverence exposes our pride and ignorance.

WORSHIP MUST INCLUDE

"Enter into his gates with thanksgiving and into his courts with praise." This must be our frame of mind in our worship. Devotion characterized early church worship. We must exercise discrimination in our thanksgiving. The Pharisee prayed with praise on his lips but his prayer was smug and self-congratulatory. He boasted of his good deeds and self-righteousness. After Savanola was burned for his courageous preaching against one of his prominent members gave thanks, "God be praised, now we can commit sodomy again."

True thanksgiving comes from a penitent and a contrite heart.

WORSHIP MUST DEMAND OUR BEST

"Anything is good enough for the church" is too often our attitude. We practice for a community or high school concert but a rehearsal in the church choir lasting more than 60 minutes brings cries of anguish. Too often our services of worship show a sloppy preparation. Does God receive our best? Is his temple (your church) as carefully maintained as your homes? Does God get the first 10 per cent of our income? Are our minds clear and our hearts prepared for the Sunday services, or are we groggy from the social activities of Saturday night?

WE MUST WORSHIP IN SPIRIT

Man is basically a spiritual being. When spirit communes with spirit, God's unseen presence is felt. There is a rapport between pastor and people. There is freedom and dignity which is not muted.

Too many people are like Samson after Delilah gave him a free haircut and the spirit of God departed from him. In true worship there is a sensitive awareness of the convicter, Counselor, and Comforter.

WE MUST WORSHIP IN TRUTH

Hypocrisy is always ugly but it is most detestable in religion. True worship is more than a sanctimonious sacramental act. True worship is related to consistent righteous living. "Keep your hearts and not your garments" was the cry of the prophets. WORSHIP MUST BRING TRANSFORMATION.

No matter how beautiful our liturgies, how adorned our sanctuaries, or how polished our sermons, if persons are not transformed by the grace of God, and the power of Christ, then true worship has not taken place.

The hearts of saints and sinners alike are humbled and chastened when a boy or a girl, man or woman kneels in contrition and seeks forgiveness. It has been my experience whenever worshippers are under conviction of their sins, and whenever there is a stirring of the spirit we sense a "holy hush." When we have truly worshipped our lives are changed.

The result is a Christ-like attitude and behavior toward our fellowmen. — E. H. Hartfield, Minister E. U. B. Church, Richter and Fuller Ave.

"THAT'S JUST THE TROUBLE, BARRY"

Big Clouds Of Doubt Hang Over U.S. Farming Future

WASHINGTON (AP)—Great uncertainty clouds the outlook in the United States for federal farm programs after the presidential inauguration next January—whether the chief executive is President Lyndon B. Johnson or Senator Barry M. Goldwater.

Both the Democrat and Republican parties have put forth rather vague farm plans in their platforms. But the candid dates of farm parties have issued statements or made speeches indicating that they would approach the perennial problems of U.S. farm incomes and costs in a somewhat different manner than advocated by their parties in the past.

Since the 1930s, Democratic administrations have espoused strong farm policies—some emphasizing farm production controls to meet these problems. Republicans on the other hand, have pledged less control and greater reliance on what they call a free market system to stabilize agriculture. Johnson and his vice-presidential running mate, Senator Hubert H. Humphrey, are committed to the continuation of farm programs of one kind or another. Goldwater is committed to elimination of these programs.

In the case, the big question is when he would do this. Before this inauguration, Goldwater was on record favoring their repeal and without qualifications. But since he was named by the Republican convention, the senator has said that he would not withdraw them immediately, but over a period of five to 10 years. Certainly while he was in Congress, Johnson supported legislation for strong farm aid programs. B. J. Goldwater, like many fellow Republicans, advocated their elimination. The Republican platform did vote for some of the farm proposals of former President Eisenhower, but these recommendations were in the direction of eventual repeal.

In drafting the party's platform, the Democratic convention has given the candidates a relatively free hand to make changes from current farm laws. Unlike most previous platforms since the days of the Roosevelt New Deal, the 1964 version did not go into details. Four years ago, the Democrats, for instance, offered what turned out to be a controversial supply-management plan under which the government, with producer approval, would have imposed tight controls to hold production of most farm commodities in line with demand. But the supply-management approach ran into trouble in Congress and was never able to get off the ground. The Kennedy-Johnson administration turned to softer approaches, mainly the use of big subsidies to encourage farmers to down production voluntarily.

The Democratic farm plank offers "to strengthen the farm income structure and reach the goal of parity in every aspect of American agriculture." It offered also consumer programs—including the food stamp plan, school lunch and other surplus food programs, acceleration of research into new industrial uses of farm products and efforts to reduce food costs.

Goldwater, in a pre-convention book entitled "The Conservative," called for "prompt and final termination of farm programs." He said they represent an unconstitutional intrusion of the federal government into agriculture that has failed miserably to solve the farm problem.

"The book went on to say that there are too many farmers and that the only way to 'persuade them to enter other fields of endeavor is to stop paying inefficient farmers for produce that cannot be sold at free market prices.' 'What has been lacking,' Goldwater's book said, 'is not an understanding of a problem that is really quite impossible not to understand, but the political courage to do something about it.' 'Doing something about it means—and there can be no equivocation here—prompt and final termination of the farm-subsidy program.' Since his nomination, Goldwater has stated that he goes along with the Republican convention farm plank. In this, he said he favors government price supports or subsidies designed to achieve orderly marketing within the framework of the dynamic American market system.

"Price-support programs," he said, "should be voluntary and should be established for specific commodities, in order to widen markets, ease production controls and help achieve increased family incomes."

He also endorsed subsidies paid in surplus farm products, land diversion programs and adequate government credit for farmers.

LOOKING BACK WITH OLD STAGER

Rutland's "Dad" Not Well Known

(PART I)
By ART GRAY

The Kelowna Star, in its first year of operation, carried a number of references to John M. Rutland, a resident of the Okanagan Mission Valley. Rutland was farming almost 1,000 acres of land in that part of the Valley known to some as Campbell's Flat, and to others as Elkhorn Flat. Prime Elkhorn having acquired a large part of the area for range as it adjoined his Simpson Ranch property.

The Vernon News also had a number of references to Rutland back as far as 1901. Rutland was, of course, the man after whom the present post office and district of Rutland is named, but not too many know much about his life or background.

An Australian by birth, a big man with one of those drooping black mustaches so prevalent and popular in those days, he had an impact on the district that was long-lasting, though his years of residence here were few.

Born in Banerist, Victoria, March 11, 1861, a gold-mining town then only a few years in existence, he moved with his parents to the West Coast, first to southern Victoria, where his father platted large orchards.

NOT APPROVED
Young John Rutland had a strong horticultural background for when he grew up he planted an orchard of his own, and also had an orchard in partnership with a brother-in-law, John Fraser. He developed a few varieties of apple called the "Rutland" which became a successful export apple.

In May 1901 he married Edith Martin of Drysdale, near Geelong. One source in Australia suggests that the marriage did not meet with the father's approval. Shortly afterwards he left with his bride on an extended honeymoon that took them to New Zealand, California, Oregon and Canada, and while in this country they visited the Okanagan Valley. The Rutland fruit belt and like so many homegrowers since they would see Niagara Falls.

They visited the Okanagan when Rutland was in the autumn, and he was so impressed with the land that upon their return to Australia, he sent out his orchards to another brother-in-law, and in the spring of 1902 returned to the Okanagan. The Vernon News of May 8th, 1902 reports that "D. Rutland" last week sold his share of 900 acres at Okanagan Mission to J. M. Rutland.

Mr. Rutland is an Australian who made a visit to the district last year, and was so favorably impressed with it that he made several attempts to secure land, without being able to get just what he was looking for.

He went back to Australia, but could not resist the desire to return to the Okanagan, which he pronounced the finest country he has seen in any part of the world.

STILL STANDING
The house and other buildings were on the west side of the Vernon Road, and the house is still standing. It is now owned by Vincent Volk. The Rutland K.G.E. packing house stands on the extreme NW corner of this half section.

The east boundary is the present Rutland Road, from Field's Corner to former Gay property. The other 640 acres was diagonally across from the Gay's corner, and was bounded on the west by the present Rutland Road, from there to Black Mt. Road, on the south by the Joe Rich Road, and on the east by Githen Road, on the upper bench.

The previous owner, Don Rabbit, had operated a saloon in a building attached to the house by a passageway. This had been partially destroyed by fire, and Rutland tore it down, using the good lumber for a house for his foreman, J. Periman (Fernald) but the farm had only been used to raise hay in the moultier parts, and wheat in the rest of the flat land.

The hillside, partially covered by pine trees, was only good for running pigs and for range. A horticulturist by upbringing, it was not long before he started to plant fruit trees. He placed a number near the house some of which were small very recently still bearing fruit. Irrigation was necessary for orchards here, and the example of this was already to be seen in the Banerist and K.L.O. orchards. Mr. Rutland was well above the level of the lands on the west side of the water from the river.

This obtained an intake high enough to bring water to the SW corner of his land, the present Rutland village centre. Because of the steepness of the bank of Mission Creek on the north side, he had to take the water from the East Kelowna line, and took it over by ditch and thence to a crossing point and thence by ditch and thence to the property, a distance of almost three miles.

INTEGRAL PART
It is of interest to note that the ditch reveals that he constructed are still an integral part of the Black Mountain Irrigation District system. Later ditches were then run to serve that part of his land that lay on the flats. He planted a large orchard that extended to the foot of the hill, and north for about a quarter mile about 100 acres in extent. In 1904 he sold 640 parts of this young orchard to incoming settlers.

Sam Byrd bought a 24 acre block near the foot of the hill, and the Clark of Dec. 8th, 1904, took as the Mr. Byrd and family and his mother arrived from Oklawaha, Manitoba, to take up residence here. In the spring of 1905 a syndicate from Kelowna approached him with an offer that he could not turn down. The syndicate was D. W. McLeod and others of the Okanagan Fruit and Land Co., the same group that had negotiated the purchase of the A. H. Knox ranch in the winter of 1904.

The Clark of April 15th, 1905 says this, "Mr. and Mrs. John Rutland left for Santa Rosa, California, on Saturday. They expect to remain there for two years, after which they will move to Australia, their former home."

Mr. and Mrs. Rutland had resided on their farm about six miles from Kelowna for the past three years, and had sold out for a sum sufficient to make them independent for the rest of their lives, and have decided to take things easy. They leave a large circle of friends and acquaintances here who wish them full enjoyment of life in the sunny south.

The Rutland estate that had purchased his estate proceeded to subdivide it into 12 and 24 acre lots, and the whole property was soon dotted with new homes, and new orchards were planted.

Next Week: John Rutland in California and Australia.

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

Tranquilizers, Alcohol Are Not Compatible

By JOSEPH MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: My doctor has prescribed tranquilizers for me, and on occasions of stress, sleeping pills.

I enjoy a cocktail or highball on social occasions, or at home with my husband. Now I wonder if both should be taken in the same day. Please advise to what extent, if any, alcohol and such drugs are compatible. — E.G.T.

It depends on the dosage of drug, and on the amount of alcohol, and on the individual who consumes them, and even on the circumstances at the time.

This is one of the basic facts of medicine which I have been trying to make clear. It is something everyone should learn.

There is no way to state exactly what amount of any drug is "the right amount" without taking into consideration the peculiarities of the patient. And we all have our peculiarities.

In general, we can say that tranquilizers and alcohol do not mix. Or sleeping pills and alcohol.

Yes, I know that a good many people have consumed this combination without coming to any harm. But it is also true that some people have come to disaster. Accidents have been caused by people taking tranquilizers and then had a drink or two. The two reinforce each other.

It should go without saying that too much of either—drug or alcohol—will impair judgment. But even small amounts, in combinations, can cause a very subtle loss of coordination and this can be dangerous. If a person is tired to start with, the effect will be that much greater.

Perhaps we can compare this problem with smoking in bed. True, people do it and no harm comes from it. But occasionally someone is tired, or forgetful, or has had too much to drink, and a fire results. This has happened often enough so that many cities now have ordinances making it an offense if carelessness sets fire to a hotel room.

Tranquilizers and alcohol are not compatible. If you still insist on mixing them, be aware that a risk is involved.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is there any drug or treatment for hair that breaks off short. My hair just won't grow. —J. E. A.

I do not know your sex or age, nor do I have any information about some other pertinent factors. The following, however, may help you: Hair, like the skin, is a part of the covering of the body. It can vary considerably. Some skins are tough and resistant to infections, rashes and other irritations.

The same is true of hair. Some is thick, some thin, some abundant, some sparse, some fragile, some strong. Your age, nutritional state and vigor of thyroid gland activity all may have a bearing on the health of your hair. Too frequent washing dries the hair and it becomes brittle.

LONG STRUGGLE
The first attempt to climb the two-mile-high sheer ice wall on the northern slopes of Mount McKinley was made in 1903 but it remained unconquered until 1963.

Newspaperboys

Today is National Newspaperboy Day. This is the special day set aside by Newspapers of this continent to honor the nearly one million little independent merchants who faithfully bring the news to their communities throughout the year.

The Kelowna Daily Courier joins in a salute to these enterprising young men.

Take a good look at the young lad who delivers your Courier, he's the kid next door, the lad down the block, or even your own son. He probably sings in the church choir; is patrol leader in his scout troop; is on the school honor roll, or even the star pitcher on a Little League ball team, or the star centre of his hockey team. He is a busy young man managing his own business. He is learning to budget his time wisely, to funnel his energies into useful things, to aim his sights high, to mold himself into a useful citizen of tomorrow.

Give him encouragement whenever you can, a pat on the back when he deserves it.

He will appreciate your interest in him.

He is learning that sound business management has no boundaries; that honesty, promptness, dependability, service, courtesy, thrift, salesmanship and human relations have a value difficult to replace.

He is practising the basic fundamentals of our free enterprise system and is learning that these principles will help him into a position of honor and trust in the future.

He is the final link in the very complicated and exacting job of producing your daily newspaper. The skills of many people all devoted to a single purpose of bringing you fast, accurate and complete coverage of important news of the day are completely in his hands.

We, here at the Courier, take great pride in honoring our little merchants and the nearly one million other young independent merchants across the continent.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

TOURISTS PREFERRED

It must give our city council a great deal of pleasure to see the large, empty parking lot, built and maintained by the city of Kelowna for the use of the people, but which the people cannot use for more than two hours at a time.

The few free places do not begin to fill the need of people who work in the district and must park somewhere. Of course the city hall staff is provided for, as is also the health clinic, but if one works at the library one has to go outside and move one's car every two hours, as it is practically impossible to find a place in the inadequate free zone.

If the council really wants to drive people away from the city property, they are certainly going the right way about it, and I should like to congratulate them on the efficiency with which they are rapidly making it impossible for the general public to work or shop within the city limits.

The tourist who neither lives here nor pays the taxes, is seemingly far more important than permanent residents. They, poor suckers, are supposed to pay rent to city hall for a place to park their cars, while a large public parking place remains practically empty.

I think that the next time the general public is called upon to donate towards something which is supposed to benefit a large number of people, they will think twice about contributing.

Yours truly
Adelaide Willett

USED MAGAZINES

Dear Sir:
On numerous occasions I have read inquiries from people who would like to put their used magazines to some useful purpose and thought that you might like to know that we have just started a magazine service to India.

There is a great demand for used magazines in that country, particularly among high school and university students. Canadian and U.S. magazines are far beyond the reach of the average person there. At the moment I have several hundred requests for magazines of any description, including many special interest fields.

Canadians interested in sending their magazines direct to persons in India, should please write to me, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and—if they wish—a few words about their special interests, hobbies and the type of magazine they have available. I in turn shall send them one of the original letters received from overseas.

I might add that this is a strictly voluntary service. We do not solicit subscriptions or contributions but are simply interested in promoting goodwill and understanding on a person to person basis. The cost of mailing the magazines is nominal. Yours very truly,
Barbara Redlich

PARKING FLEA

It would appear that unless one works for the city hall, or for the South Okanagan Health Unit, one must pay for the privilege of making a living.

The city car park at one time, a real service to local residents is now so organized, that it is intended to make a profit for the city hall. The allocation of 24-hour parking space is ludicrously small for the many people who work in the downtown area. Unless one drives to work before 8 a.m. there is little likelihood of obtaining space anywhere but in the inadequate free zone.

It seems to me that most of the workers parking their cars are involved in some way, with service to the public, either through shops or offices, or in the library. How can an adequate service be given to Kelowna people, if one has to leave them standing, in order to move a car?

The actual monetary gain to the city's parking offences fund cannot be great, as most people do move their cars to other parking places. The city is the loser through inefficient service from workers, who, of necessity, are turned into clock watchers.

Yours truly
Barbara E. M. Blyth

Overture Concert Members Hear Duo Pianists, Parsons And Poole

Duo pianists Margaret Parsons, K 358, which opened the week and Clifford Poole were received by a large audience of Overture Club members at the Kelowna Community Theatre.

Although the two pianists, who in private life are Mr. and Mrs. Poole, and perform separately on occasion, they have been successful and have achieved high honors in piano competitions. Their repertoire is a mixture of gay and serious music, and their playing is now given as a team. Their coordination and timing is perfect, and as one voice, they played the two beautiful pieces, which added to the enjoyment of the concert. The duo pianists were accompanied by a string quartet, which added to the beauty of the performance. The two beautiful pieces, which added to the enjoyment of the concert, were played by the duo pianists.

The concert program consisted of three pieces, which were played by the duo pianists. The first piece was a sonata by Beethoven, which was played by the duo pianists. The second piece was a sonata by Chopin, which was played by the duo pianists. The third piece was a sonata by Schubert, which was played by the duo pianists.

ANN LANDERS

Mail Order Romance Offers No Future

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a girl almost 18 and in love with a boy I've never met. We've been writing to each other for six months. He is in the Navy. We started to correspond when my cousin who is his bunk-mate showed him my picture. Please don't be like my mother and tell me I'm too young to be in love. I've read all about love and this is it. Rolfe and I agree on everything, right down to the brand of toothpaste we like best. The only thing we don't have in common is religion. We can solve this problem later. Rolfe gets his leave in a few months and he wants to come out here to make my acquaintance. We are thinking about getting married. I can finish school later. Please give me some encouragement. My mother goes wild when I bring up the subject.

—WISHING AND HOPING
Dear W. & H.: Sorry, Toots, but I'm not going to encourage a kooky, mail order romance built on toothpaste. It's rough enough these days to make a marriage work when two people KNOW each other. What chance WOULD a couple of pen-pals have? Stay in school and cool it.
Dear Ann Landers: A few months ago my wife and I told our friends we were planning a trip to London, Paris and Rome. Two weeks before our departure several friends came by the house to ask if we would do "a little shopping" for them. We had requests for French kid gloves, woolen yard goods, perfume and wrist watches. A neighbor asked for whiskey "if we should stop at Shannon." My cousin brought over a list which covered three countries. My wife is the type who can't say "no." Now she must devote several days of her vacation to shopping for her friends. Will you please say something in your column about this? Perhaps people who ask such favors aren't really aware that the customs allowance is $100 per person. Then there is the expense of excess weight on planes, not to mention the time and energy required to go hunting for the articles. Thank you. —ANNNOYED.
Dear Annoyed: The bold and brassy time—ever ready to impose—will always be with us. If your wife can't say "no" to these folks she gets no sympathy from me. Let her pay the bills and wear out her shoes and spend her vacation time shopping. Real friends don't ask such favors.

Beta Sigma Phi Planning Preferential Tea Sunday

Beta Sigma Phi set the date for their preferential tea at the model meeting held October 13 at the home of Mrs. Thomas Burns, 1010 Bridge Road. The tea will be held at the home of Mrs. Alex Haig, Abbott Street, on Sunday, October 18 at 3 p.m. and all women who have been invited to join Beta Sigma Phi are urged to attend and register as pledges of the society.

During the model meeting which greatly interested the women invited, Mrs. Fred Gerlinger, president of Beta Sigma Phi, gave a brief summary of the traditions and purposes of the group. Mrs. H. Thomas Burns, the rushing captain, outlined the advantages of joining.

Following the business meeting, squares and coffee were served by the hostesses. Mrs. John Culos and Mrs. P. D. Wharm, while Mrs. A. A. Bennie, ways and means chairman, auctioned off a variety of garden produce donated by Mrs. Douglas Mervyn.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. T. L. Mooney, 2101 Street on October 27 at 8:15 p.m.

CHURCH OFFICERS

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Bensch

Sergent—1 Timothy 3:1-13; 5: Titus 1:5-9.

Seeking to guide Timothy in selecting persons to rule the Ephesian church, Paul outlines the qualifications for bishops, deacons and their wives—1 Timothy 3:1-13.

They must be blameless, vigilant, sober, of good conduct, given to hospitality, apt to teach, faithful in all things, not double-tongued, not given to wine—1 Timothy 3:2-10.

Paul warns Timothy against preferring or partially preferring certain persons, cautioning him to select persons of good character—1 Timothy 3:1-13.

Paul sends Titus the qualifications for church officers, also admonishing him to set the Cretan church in order and ordain officers.—Titus 1:5-9.

Golden Text: 1 Timothy 3:17.

High or Low Road Schism Faces Church of England

LONDON (AP)—A split among high and low sections of the Church of England may upset plans for reviving Anglicanism and Methodism in Britain.

By the end of this year, each Anglican diocese must submit a report giving its opinion on the merger of the convocations of Canterbury and York. So far, only a few of the 42 dioceses have spoken. Their reports have not been published but enough is known to indicate that disagreements among churchmen are sharp.

It is the alienating nature of the Church of England that helps make things difficult. It runs the gamut from high church ritualists to low church evangelicals, who regard preaching the word as their primary task and do it in almost Calvinistic style.

Others are Methodists, who feel closer to other Protestant churches than to the Anglicans. In their own, are mostly concerned in favor of the Methodist merger. High church priests are holding their noses to the idea, fearing that the church will be something which might change it.

On the other side of the fence, the Methodists themselves are seriously split. They decided not to debate the proposal at this year's annual meeting, leaving the issue until their next conference in July, 1965. By then they may have some clearer indication of the Anglican attitude.

The Methodists, who split away from the Church of England about 200 years ago, have always maintained a close relationship with the state-established church. They professed to accept the 39 articles of the Church of England and, with that failure to attain a clear Christian faith, its prayer book.

Printer's Devil Not A Term Used In Hearing Of These Nuns

CALLOW END, England (CP)—"Printer's devil" is the common term for a press apprentice but the title is not used at nearby Stanbrook Abbey where gentle nuns work with ink and hot lead to produce some of the most beautiful books and broadsheets in Britain.

Before printing was invented, the "scriptorium" of an abbey was a busy place. There manuscripts were copied for distribution mainly among the clergy.

Now Stanbrook's presses form the scriptorium's modern equivalent. Books mainly of a religious nature are printed with painstaking care on handmade paper. Many are finished by hand illumination in gold and brightly colored inks.

The abbey was founded in 1625 and its printing history dates from 1878 when Brother Laurence Shepherd of the Order of Saint Benedict bought a small press and employed a local printer to teach him how to run it.

From then on, says the present printer, "we have passed the craft on from generation to generation, with occasional help from outside."

Now there are six presses, including the original one, and seven nuns running them. The nuns maintain the presses but if anything serious goes wrong with mechanical equipment, expert workmen are allowed into the cloistered abbey to carry out repairs.

However, typographical advice is spoken to the printer through a grille because technically no men are allowed inside.

No visitors may enter the press room itself, whether male or female, except the essential workmen. "All this is regulated by the Vatican," the printer said.

The spokesman's name cannot be revealed. "Our custom is to remain anonymous," a reporter was told. "We are strictly enclosed, behind grilles—the strictest of all, known as Papal Enclosure."

The printer entered the Benedictine order in 1941. "I had never printed before and I didn't know anything about it," she said. "But I always loved books and collected first editions and beautiful bindings when I could afford them."

"I was put into the printing house to learn the craft when I was a novice. In 1958 I was appointed printer."

The press prints "fine editions" of poetry, medieval spiritual writings, histories of the Church Fathers, and also plain editions of liturgical books for the English-speaking laity in the OSB.

The actual printing operation is a whimsical but cunning blend of venerable and modern practices. The press on which the finest work is done has an automatic feeding mechanism capable of printing hundreds of sheets an hour. "But the automatic feed is detached and the damp hand-made sheets are fed in slowly and carefully after stopping the machine between impressions," the printer said.

The nuns wear their usual habits as they scurry about the machinery. However, long aprons protect the snowy-white portions of the habit.

After the sheets are dried and, in the case of books, bound, illuminated letters and

Much of this is done by two laymen, Harry and Margaret Adams, two Britons who collaborate with Stanbrook Press.

"THE OKANAGAN'S OWN NEWSPAPER"

Baseball's Grapevine Speeds Rumors As Berra And Keane Go

By HERSCHEL HENNINGSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

While the baseball world digested Friday's bombshell that the Yankees and Cardinals are expected to trade slugger Yogi Berra to the Cardinals, the grapevine speeds rumors that Keane will be the new first baseman of the New York Yankees and Lou D'Amico will be named as field coach of St. Louis Cardinals.

Reliable sources reported that Keane had the edge for the Yankees job over Alvin Dark, who earlier this month was named manager of San Francisco Giants.

Dark was known to be the favorite of St. Louis owner Gus Green glazer, but the Cardinals' new general manager, Bob Howsam, was rumored to be pushing Charlie Metro, Chicago White Sox scout, and veteran major league pitcher.

Before the second guessers had much of a chance to rehash the World Series, Keane was named to head the Cardinals' new office and handle in his region, which he said was with ten several weeks ago.

Not long after Berra got the bad news from Yankees general manager Ralph Houk that the American League champion had decided to release him after a one-year trial, the 39-year-old Yogi immediately signed a two-year contract as a special field consultant under Houk.

MANY DEVELOPMENTS
In addition to the Keane-Berra announcements:

Cleveland Indians, rumored to be moving to Seattle, decided to remain in Cleveland at least through 1965.

Eight wealthy Milwaukee businessmen asked baseball commissioner Ford Frick to help them arrange negotiations for the purchase of the Braves, whose present owners reportedly plan to move the club to Atlanta.

Pittsburgh Pirates said they wanted Keane to replace Danny Murtaugh, who resigned as manager because of ill health.

Ring Devine, fired in August as the Cardinals' general manager, was named Executive of the Year for the second consecutive year by the other major league general managers.

Keane said his decision to step down was made by him and his wife Sept. 25 as a result of "a number of little things—none really important."

The 53-year-old Keane became the likely successor to Berra as soon as the Yankees made their announcement. Houk said Keane and Dark were among four possibilities being considered. He did not name the others.

Cardinal coach Red Schoendienst was mentioned as a possible successor to Keane but he was reported to be looking for an offer to manage in the Cardinal farm system.

Houk said the Yankees probably would name Berra's successor within a week.

In St. Louis, Berra accepted a six-man committee to screen Cardinal candidates.

The idea of dropping Berra, Houk said, began in mid-August when the Yankees were 54 games out of first place.

"The move had nothing to do with losing the World Series," Houk said. "Friday morning was the first Yogi knew about it. In his new job, he'll be scouting major league teams and looking at some of the players in our farm system."

"I don't mind," Berra said, although he had expressed the hope earlier in the week that he would be rehired. "I'll be spending the year at home where you can get a job like this. I don't have to sign in or punch a clock. And the pay is good."

CZECH BEST CYCLER
HACHIOJI, Japan (AP)—Hiri Daller of Czechoslovakia won the gold medal in the 4,000-metre individual pursuit cycling race in the Olympics today.

Italy's Giorgio Zini was second, winning a silver medal. Preben Jakobsen of Denmark edged Thermen Groen of The Netherlands in an earlier race for the bronze medal.

Cubs Rout Devils With 14-0 Win

Kamloops Red Devils fell victims to the powerful Kelowna Cubs today, 14-0, before 600 fans at Eki's Stadium last night.

First quarter play was defensive with neither team finding room for the important touch-down ground.

Cubs' end Al Stoddard blocked a Red Devils' kick producing the spark to fire halfback Perry Stang over from the 15. Fullback Grant Armeau carried for the important touch-down ground.

Cubs' Bob McGregor, guard, recovered a fumble on the Kamloops' 30-yard line to set up a series of plays which ended with Armeau carrying over from the six and then converting his kick.

The fourth quarter was strictly another defensive battle with both teams showing good stamina.

"We played good, sound, fundamental football, and it paid off," said Coach Bob Schultz.

Kelowna registered 14 first downs, while the Red Devils came up with 10.

Armeau was the big gainer for Kelowna, marching 75 yards, followed by Stang with 45.

Kamloops' fullback, Grant, was the largest gainer of the game, sweeping 121 yards.

"The shut-out was the first in the league this year," said Coach Brian "Tuff" Kelly, "and there'll be more." Tuff added, "There'll be more."

Kelowna now has four wins with one loss.

Cubs' next home game will be at Eki's Stadium, Friday, November 6, when they will meet the cellar-dwelling Immaculata Dons.

U.S. TAKES BRAZIL
TOKYO (AP) — The United States tonight clinched the championship of Olympic basketball's group B with an 86-53 victory over Brazil, third-seeded team here. In other developments, Japan scored a major upset in defeating Italy 72-64.

And Canada went down to its sixth straight loss, 85-69 to Puerto Rico.

Meanwhile Bill Crothers, Canada's most successful track man at the games, worked his way through two preliminary rounds of the 400 metres to qualify for the semi-finals Sunday.

The 23-year-old Markham, Ont., pharmacist was second by a whisker to Ollan Carvell of the U.S. in his first heat and second to Andrzej Badenski of Poland in his second. His times were 48.8 and 48.7.

Wendell Motley of Trinidad had the best time in the 400-metre preliminaries at 45.8.

Crothers captured the silver medal Friday in the 800 metres, won by Peter Snell of New Zealand.

Snell led his way through the first round in the 1,500 metres today, finishing fourth in a heat and qualifying for the semi-finals. Ergas Lepo of Toronto was also among those moving into the semi-finals as he came fourth in his heat.

The Olympic record for the hammer throw fell twice in the qualifying round for that event. First Harold Connolly of the U.S. threw the hammer 221 feet 11 1/2 inches, then Gyula Zalotsky of Hungary threw it 223 feet 3/4 inch.

The old mark of 220 feet 1 1/4 inches was set by the 1960 champion, Vasily Rudenkov of Russia.

TOKYO (CP) — Russia continued to pile up gold medals in Olympics weightlifting, winning its third when Vladimir Golovanov took the middle-heavyweight crown today with a world-record performance.

Golovanov, a 26-year-old soldier, had a total lift of 1,072 1/2 pounds, topping the world mark of 1,056 set by Louis Martin of Britain in 1962.

Martin failed today to come up to his own best mark, finishing second with a total lift of 1,045 pounds, to take the silver medal.

The bronze went to Ireneusz Palinski of Poland, who tied with William March of the United States with a lift total of 1,028 1/2 pounds. Palinski placed higher than March because he weighed slightly less.

Bucks Shutout Blades 9-0 In Junior Hockey Opener

Kelowna Buckaroos last night trounced Vernon Blades 9-0 in their 1964-65 Okanagan Junior hockey season opener before 800 fans at Memorial Arena.

The one-sided game saw important goalie Mike Gail stop 42 shots on goal to hold Blades scoreless. Terry Kasabuchi, and Don Evans came up with hat-tricks, while John Strong had two, and Marcello Verna, one.

Eighteen penalties were handed out, 15 to Buckaroos, and eight to Blades.

In the first period, Kasabuchi opened the scoring at 3:04 assisted by Evans. Strong was next connecting with one from Kasabuchi and David Couves at 15:43.

Kasabuchi came back in the second period at 9:59 assisted by Gordon Wallace. Strong got his second goal from Wallace at 12:11. Centre Marcello Verna, assisted by Kasabuchi, ended the second period scoring by getting his own at 15:18.

Winger Evans capped the first of his three third-period goals at 1:05, on an assist from Verna. Kasabuchi again at 19:37 from Verna and Evans.

Assists from Verna helped Evans finish up the scoring at 14:07 and finally at 19:01. Blades' goalie, Norman Schuman, kicked out 30 of the 39 shots aimed between the pipes.

Buckaroos' Dave Couves went off at 5:22 of the first period for elbowing Kelowna's Richard Bullock. Bullock was thrown out of the game at 7:11 for entering a fight between Vernon's Bobby Stein, and Bucks' centre Terry Strong, who both went off for roughing.

Still in the first period Evans sat out two minutes for charging at 15:41.

Kasabuchi and Blades' forward Garry Koski went off at 16:24 for two minutes each for roughing.

Five minutes was handed out to Couves at 7:05 of the second period for spearing, followed by Blades' Dale Sirochuk at 9:27.

Seven Canucks Hold Irish Wins
By THE CANADIAN PRESS
Seven Canadians won prizes of $150,000 each today with Irish Sweepstakes tickets drawn on Hasty Cloud, winner of the Cambridgehire horse race at Newmarket, England.

Four Canadians won prizes of $60,000 with tickets on the second-place Commander-in-Chief, and four won prizes of $30,000 with tickets on Harwin, who finished third.

The total of Canadian sweepstakes is expected to be more than $1,900,000, as more than 400 Canadian tickets were drawn on the 93 horses eligible for the race. Forty-three horses started.

Holders of tickets on non-starters or horses who ran out of the money today will win prizes based on the total amount of the pool—usually about $1,100 each.

Aussie Runner Makes Comeback
TOKYO (CP) — The United States continued to assert its track and field mastery in the Olympic Games today, capturing gold medals in events it has nearly always won, but a 27-year-old Australian woman provided a comeback story with an impressive win in the new 400-metre event.

Betty Cuthbert, the heroine of the 1956 Olympic Games in Melbourne, whipped through the 400 in 52 seconds flat, just 1-10 of a second off the world record held by Sim Kim Dan of North Korea. She needed all her speed, too, for Ann Packer of Britain was right behind in 52.2.

Henry Carr won the 200 metres in the Olympic record time of 2:03 seconds, giving the U.S. its second gold medal in the men's sprints. Bob Hayes earlier won the 100 metres.

Dallas Long set an Olympic record of 66 feet 8 1/2 inches winning the shot put, an event the U.S. has failed to win only in 1920 and 1936. Team-mate Hardy Matson got the silver medal, Vilmos Varju of Hungary the bronze.

MINNER BRONZE
Canada's Harry Jerome narrowly failed to win his second medal of the games, finishing fourth in the 200 by 1-10 of a second. Paul Drayton of the U.S. was second in 20.5, Edwin Roberts of Trinidad third in 20.8.

Jerome, a 24-year-old Vancouver sprinter, took the bronze medal in the 100 metres.

He was the third Canadian in Olympic history to reach both sprint finals. Percy Williams of Vancouver took the gold medal in both the 100 and 200 metres at Amsterdam in 1920, and Bobby Kerr of Hamilton won the gold in the 200 and the bronze in the 100 at London in 1908.

Carr's time eclipsed the record of 20.3 set by Livio Berruti of Italy in the 1960 Olympics at Rome. Berruti, here to defend his title, was fifth today, 1-10 of a second behind Jerome.

Shot-putter Long beat the record of 64 feet 6 3/4 inches set by Bill Nieder of the U.S. in 1960. FLOP AT ROME

The bidding:

This hand has not been much played, but it does have an interesting side. It first appeared in the 1950's in one of the old Contract Bridge books when it was at the height of its fame as a bridge player and show man extraordinaire.

The bidding was about the same as it would be today. The opening heart lead was standard, and East winning with the king and returning the jack of hearts. South covered with the queen, and West had a genuine problem whether to take it with the ace. He didn't know who had the missing ten.

West finally decided that the best thing to do was to lead the ace of hearts, and he did so. This was a brilliant move, for it allowed him to take the trick with the ace, and then to lead the jack of hearts. This was a brilliant move, for it allowed him to take the trick with the ace, and then to lead the jack of hearts.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

FOR TOMORROW

Another day in which it would be advisable to stay close to the home front. Personal relations should be more or less in the same uninteresting state as during the past few days, and association with strangers could be far from satisfactory.

FOR THE BIRTHDAY

If tomorrow is your birthday, your horoscope indicates that all your energies and talents should be under fine stimulus now and, though complete results of your efforts may not be immediate, though some gains are possible before November 1st, the manner in which you use your many skills within the next two weeks will have a great influence upon attainment of ultimate goals. With the exception of November, early April and early August, both job and financial prospects look excellent over the long run, with especially good boosts along these lines indicated during the first half of February, mid-April, the first week in May, late June, September and October. Look forward, therefore, and start planning for the fine success which can be yours within the next year.

Personal, domestic and sentimental interests should prosper for most of this new year in your life, but do try to avoid friction in close circles in late April and early August. January and mid-1965 should be highly stimulating, socially, but try not to overdo things, thereby inviting fatigue. You will need to be at your best, both mentally and physically, to make use of the fine chances for expansion which will come your way next September.

A child born on this day could be highly successful in the legal field; would also make an excellent designer or artist.

THE DAY AFTER TOMORROW

Planetary restrictions of the past few days began to lift power, but in most things it would still be well to "go it alone" and not to expect too much cooperation from others. Be realistic and objective in your aspirations and the past few days, and association with strangers could be far from satisfactory.

FOR THE BIRTHDAY

If Monday is your birthday, the next 12 months should see many of your goals realized—especially those dealing with occupational advancement and financial betterment. Efforts put forth on both these fronts within the next two weeks (an excellent period for all Libra!) should bring highly gratifying results, in various stages, during early February, mid-April, the first week in May, late June, next September and October. Do avoid extravagance and or speculation in November, however; also in early April and next August.

Home and family interests will be governed by generally good aspects during most of the year, and, in mid-year, you should find yourself in an exceptionally stimulating period where romance, travel and social activities are concerned. New and valuable contacts made them could develop into something worthwhile if you are amenable.

A child born on this day will also be endowed with fine perception of artistic values.

Ferocity Needed Says Roughie Boss

OTTAWA (CP)—Ferocity—that's what Ottawa Rough Riders need, says head coach Frank Clair.

"I hope we'll come back with a more ferocious attitude Saturday," he said, referring to the return Eastern Football Conference engagement with Hamilton Tiger-Cats here Saturday afternoon. Ottawa and Hamilton are locked in first place.

The other EFC game this weekend will be the last chance for Toronto Argonauts to keep their playoff hopes alive. Third-place Montreal Alouettes, with a suddenly potent pass attack, invade Toronto Sunday.

The Als now hold a four-point lead over the last-place Argos, and with only two games to go after Sunday, a loss would eliminate the Argos.
